Sacrifice is a common word heard on Remembrance Day, but few understand the true meaning of the word, says Warrant Officer Patrick Tower.

Tower delivered a speech on sacrifice during Thursday's Remembrance Day cer-emony at Calgary's Military Museums.

"I've seen sacrifice in the deepest meaning of the word in that while I was in Afghanistan, seven members of my company were killed in action," said Tower, who was the first to receive the Star of Military Valour in 2006, for leading his comrades after members of the Taliban, barraged them.

"Four members of my platoon were killed in action, including my best friend," he said. "I truly believe I'm alive today because they sacrificed their lives — and it could have just as easily been me, but it was them."

City gets wired with Facebook account

Ready to go with friends, likes, comments and status updates, the City of Calgary is now on Facebook.

According to Paul Newmarch of the City of Calgary, the new Facebook page will make it easier for Calgarians to access information about the city through links to news, blogs, tweets and videos.

"It's a one-stop shop for all of Calgary's media and information," said Newmarch. "The social gathering aspect of Facebook will help us get across to Calgarians."

Newmarch said about 600,000 Calgarians are on Facebook, and feedback is encouraged on their page.

Sutter jailed briefly after fight outside Arizona bar

Calgary Flames forward Brett Sutter was briefly jailed on suspicion of assault after getting into a fight outside a Scottsdale, Ariz., bar.

Police say the 23-yearold Sutter, son of GM Darryl Sutter, was taken into custody early Thursday after he allegedly punched an unidentified man as the two were leaving the American Junkie bar at closing time. Police say it remains unclear what led to the fight or whether Sutter knew the man, who wasn't seriously injured.

Sutter was released on bond about an hour after his arrest. There was no immediate comment Thursday from the Flames against possible disciplinary action against Sutter. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'Nerve-wracking' wait is over as stranded ship docks

◆ The Carnival Splendor finally docks in San Diego harbour ◆ Canada's Department of Foreign Affairs said 196 Canadian citizens were on board

Kathleen Ehlert has spent the last four days scouring the Internet, flipping between news channels and waiting by the phone, hoping for any word on her family stranded aboard a disabled cruise ship.

On Thursday, she finally heard from them. It was a short, crackly call from her mother, but it was something.

"She couldn't hear me, because the boat was so loud. But she was yelling and saying, 'We're fine, we're here,'" said the 29year-old Ehlert, who lives in Calgary.

"She was on the verge of tears, saying, 'This hasn't been fun.'"

Ehlert's family members were among the nearly 4,500 people, including nearly 200 Canadians, who were on board the Carnival Splendor when it lost power Monday following a fire in the engine room.

After four days of rationed cold food, stinky toilets and dark cabins, the ship finally docked Thursday in San Diego harbour, pulled to shore by six tugboats.

The news couldn't come fast enough for Ehlert, who said she only heard about the fire on the ship through her sister, who lives in Utah. Ehlert's parents, both in their 50s, were on the ship with another sister and a handful of other family members.

"It's been nerve-wracking," said Ehlert. "I've been sitting in front of my computer, my TV, just trying to get any new information I Ehlert's cousin Jalene Hansen managed to plug in her dead cellphone as soon as she got off the ship. "It's good to be back," the Utah resident told The Canadian Press as the family waited for a bus to Long Beach, Calif.

Distracted driving bill 'dangerous': Doctor

Bill expected to pass by December, later be proclaimed into law

The president of Canada's Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons says Alberta's plan to crack down on distracted motorists will bring even more road carnage because it still allows drivers to talk on handsfree devices

"It's misguided. It's dangerous and it's going to kill more lives than it saves. They should be ashamed of themselves," said Dr. Louis Francescutti.

"They're going to give people a false sense of security - that it's OK to drive (with) hands-free (devices) - and make our roads more dangerous for everybody."

The ban would apply only to hand-held devices. Anyone using hands-free devices is exempt.

Francescutti noted the government's own re-

INVESTIGATION

Secret shopping scam

Calgary police are investigating after fraudulent cheques have allegedly been sent to people in the mail in a recent secret shopping scam.

The investigation began when large amounts of envelopes were sent to people's homes throughout North America.

The envelopes contained forged cheques, each with amounts from $1,200 to $4,400.

The recipients were also sent instructions via email to cash each cheque and spend the money at a local store, in which any extra amounts of money were to be wired back to the unknown sender.

Financial institutions later informed victims that the cheques were fake.

DJ KELLY

THE SCRUTINEER,
WITH ANALYSIS OF CIVIC ISSUES
IN THE CITY OF CALGARY

The first meeting of every new council is always the most interesting. It is where the rubber meets the road and we get an idea of what will happen over the next three years.

first post on my blog was about the first council meeting after the 2007 election.

The post was titled "Did Bronco suddenly go insane while I was tying my shoes?"

At that all-important first meeting, Mayor Dave Bronconnier tabled and pushed through infrastructure projects totalling $1.3 billion, including the West LRT and several new recreation centres. The majority of these were never discussed in detail during the election — not that anyone was truly paying attention, anyway.

The ironic thing, however, is that in that first blog post I talked about how I agreed with one pundit's assessment that these might be the wrong priorities and there was not nearly enough public input to label them a priority in the first place.

That talking head is now known as Mr. Mayor.

Naheed Nenshi at the time talked about the lack of rationale for the West LRT route and questioned why a spur line to the airport was designed to come off the imaginary centre north line instead of off the existing northeast line.

ing northeast line. Any of this sound vaguely familiar?

Nenshi was even quoted

"With an election like the one we just had, they know we're watching now more than we were in 2007, and the public wouldn't allow a mayor to push his personal agenda over rookie aldermen."

at the time as saying, "I'm offended that council spent $1.3 billion in their first meeting without any public input."

Flash forward to this past Monday and we saw a council that could have easily gone the same way as its predecessor.

The biggest items on the agenda this week were the airport tunnel (which would allow a LRT spur line from the northeast C-Train route) and the southeast LRT, two things eerily similar to what was discussed in that fateful first council meeting in 2007.

This time council pulled back in all the right places.

Council asked for a report on the airport tunnel to nail down the actual price, and used a deadline extension on the provincial GreenTRIPI funding needed to build the southeast LRT to determine what exactly the project should look like.

With an election like the one we just had, they know we're watching now more than we were in 2007, and the public wouldn't allow a mayor to push his personal agenda over rookie aldermen.

Obviously proponents of both projects are upset, but it's nice to see a council actually willing to take the time to involve the public and ensure it makes the right choices.

HELPING SELF-DIRECTED INVESTORS SUCCEED

portfolio can seem like a daunting task, but the online tools, information and learning resources RBC Direct Investing provides to its self-directed investors allows them to build and manage their portfolio with confidence.

"We're helping individual investors increase their investment knowledge and confidence so they can feel comfortable with their investment decisions," says Michael MacDonald, the head of Business Strategy for RBC Direct Investing.

RBC Direct Investing has a six-step process to help educate clients on investing and to help them become successful investors.

The first step is helping them to establish a goal for their investments.

The second step is to educate them on the different investor profiles and the asset mix that goes with them. "This comes down to risk tolerance," says MacDonald. "How much risk are you willing to take on to get a particular rate of return?"

Understanding investment choices is the third step. This is important because one needs to consider diversification, tax implications and products available.

Building the portfolio and taking action to turn that portfolio into fruition are the next two steps.

The final step is to then monitor the portfolio. This requires ensuring one's investments stay aligned with the appropriate balance because not all of a person's investments will rise or fall at the same rate.

"Consider rebalancing your portfolio at least once a year," says MacDonald. "This is a step most investors fail to recognize, but it's just as critical as the initial establishment of the portfolio."

RBC Direct Investing has tools to help investors do iust this.

Tools include a goal setting tool, which lets people know how realistic it is to achieve their goal, an Analyze and Rebalance tool, to help investors identify their portfolio's diversification by asset class, region, sector and holding concentration and there is also a Performance tool, which allows investors to see how their personal rate of return compares to their expectations and against other standard investor portfolios.

MacDonald says the ideal self-directed investor usually has three attributes:

- 1. A desire to have more control over their investments.
- 2. Investing knowledge or an interest in developing it.
- 3. Comfort using the internet and online technologies.

▶ Feds considering keeping troops in Kabul until 2014, sources say

Stephen Harper says he decided with some "reluctance" to extend Canada's military mission in Afghanistan.

The prime minister confirmed Thursday that Canadian troops will stay in Afghanistan to train the country's military after the current combat mission ends in July.

"Look, I'm not going to kid you. Down deep my preference would be, would have been to see a complete end to the military mission," he said.

Previously, Harper had insisted that Canadian troop would withdraw by July. However, NATO countries have been working for months to persuade him to change his mind, and the opposition Liberals suggested they would support an extended training mission.

POTENTIAL ATTEMPTED MURDER

Mountie slashed in scuffle

The RCMP say a 61-yearold Vancouver man is in custody and could face a charge of attempted murder after a scuffle that left a rookie officer with knife wounds.

The Mounties say in a news release that an officer in his 20s who has been on the force for just six months was attacked while responding to a call of a suspicious vehicle on Wednesday night.

The release says as the officer approached a vehicle parked on the side of the road, a man inside the car got out and lunged at him with a knife. The officer sustained a "serious gash" to his arm, and then stunned the man with a Taser and placed him in handcuffs.

Both were taken to hospital by ambulance, and the officer required more than 20 stitches.

The suspect is still in custody.

IN THE SPIRIT FOR COMPETITION

Every Christmas season, my girlfriend and I hit the snowy road. Destination: The Hawkesbury LCBO, where I always leave the store with two cases of red wine.

undreds of Quebecers make similar pilgrimages every year.
Why? Most bottles are cheaper there than in Quebec. (Like the SAQ, the LCBO is a state monopoly. Just less rapacious.)

But I shouldn't have to go to Hawkesbury. Consumers in Quebec, and elsewhere in Canada, could find cheaper wines at home ... if we could just break the liquor boards' monopolies across the country.

In Quebec, defenders of the status quo keep repeating that the SAQ is a "cash cow" for the State. But this generous yearly dividend comes from our wallets. We, captive consumers, pay a premium for our bottles of Merlot and Cabernet Sauvignon.

nd Cabernet Sauvignor The only reason the SAQ makes an abnormally high profit is because it's a monopoly. Without competitors, it can bleed consumers.

"Yes, Alberta has privatized its market, but only partially. The government has kept a monopoly over wholesale and distribution."

The SAQ takes a margin of 40 per cent to 135 per cent on each bottle it sells. It pays $5 to a producer, takes a $7 cut and sells the bottle for $15 (including taxes). Yes, the SAQ is a cash cow for politicians. But it's us, the consumers, who are being milked!

Should we privatize the SAQ? Not necessarily. A private monopoly would be no better than a public one. What we need is more competition. We need to allow entrepreneurs to open wine shops and compete with the SAQ. We also need to allow people to buy bottles from around the world over the Internet, without having to go through the SAQ.

For example: You like the Jacob's Creek Shiraz 2007? A store in New Jersey is selling it for $6.53. On the SAQ's shelves, the same bottle will set you back $14.90. This wine can be bought on the Internet and delivered to your door in less than two weeks.

The problem is not the SAQ itself, or the LCBO. The problem is the prohibition of competition.

In Belgium, a nonproducing country whose population and culture are similar to Quebec's, the wine market is completely free. Hundreds of retailers compete with each other. As a result, they have three times the wines, for a third of the price.

Quebecers and other Canadians like wine. Many are connoisseurs, and eager to try new varieties and vineyards. They deserve better than a state monopoly that is clearly corked.

MINUTES WITH: ESAR MILLAN

For the second time in as many weeks, dog whisperer Cesar Millan was visiting the West Coast during his Live 2010 Canada Tour, Metro caught up with Millan in Richmond, B.C., and picked his brain for advice for people and their favourite

What's the best sort of rainyday doggy exercise tips you have for city dwellers?

Challenge the (dog's) nose at home. Hide (their) things in boxes, under ledges or layers of clothes, be creative. A lot of times people challenge the body, but they don't challenge the mind. The nose controls 60 per cent of brain reaction, so ... (by challenging the nose, you're more likely to wear out the dog).

What is the most common mistake people make with their dogs?

One of the most common (mistakes) is to make the dog responsible. Dogs don't rationalize, there's no knowledge behind instinct, it's all reaction. (Another mistake) is humanizing the dog: They talk to the dog like it's a human being. That is good therapy for humans, but not really good for the dog. You must honour the identity of the dog. A horse is a horse, a dolphin is a dolphin, but a dog becomes human: That's a big mistake.

What's the best advice you can give people who are bringing a second dog into the pack?

You have to bring (positive) energy into the house. When you give affection to one pack member, everyone gets it. Dogs live in a very harmonious time: If one is happy, everyone is happy; if one is sad, everyone is sad. It's all about the pack; it's not about individuals. So, if you think "individual," you're going to create jealousy, you're going to create separation. But if you think "pack" ...

everyone gets to benefit. Is there such thing as a bad dog breed, or just bad owners?

There's no such thing as a bad dog; they don't plan things like human beings. Dogs react based on a certain situation. It's not the breed, it's the human behind the breed. All dogs can become great pack members, as can all humans

Following Thursday's test, the president of the electoral court, Judge Walter de Almeida Guilherme, told reporters that Silva "read and wrote" during the exam, but did not offer more details. A final ruling is not expected before Friday.

◆ The Social Network and the King's Speech are two early Oscar darlings ◆ Firth, Portman favoured to get the Best Acting nominations ◆ With 10 Best Picture nominees, the field has a wide variety of hopefuls, from blockbuster Harry Potter to Sundance fave Winter's Bone

It's the start of Oscar season

Two dramas unfolding in a new world of global communications could emerge as front-runners at the Academy Awards.

Director David Fincher's The Social Network is set in modern times as the founders of the website Facebook battle over their creation. Tom Hooper's The King's Speech takes place in the 1920s and '30s as Queen Elizabeth II's dad struggles with his speech impediment at a time when the royal family is counted on to voice reassurance through the new medium of radio.

The Social Network has almost universal acclaim, a hip subject and impressive box-office results since it opened Oct. 1. The King's Speech does not open until late November, but it's an old-fashioned awards contender; a classy period piece that has been an audience favourite at film festivals for its heart and humour.

Nominations come out Jan. 25, with the Oscars presented on Feb. 27.

BEST PICTURE

Assuming The King's Speech and The Social Network make the cut, eight other films will compete for the remaining slots as the Oscars go with 10 best-picture nominees again. B Blockbusters such as animated comedy Toy Story 3, heist drama The Town and Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1, the next-to-last film in the fantasy franchise, are contenders.

Smaller releases could slip in, including Ozark thriller and top Sundance winner Winter's Bone, the family comic drama The Kids Are All Right, 127 hours, and Never Let Me Go, a tragic tale set in an alternate reality.

Other contenders include Hereafter, Another Year, Somewhere, Barney's Version, Black Swan, True Grit and How Do You Know.

BEST ACTOR

Colin Firth earned his first Oscar nomination for last year's A Single Man, and some who have seen him as George VI in The King's Speech think Oscar voters should just hand him the best-actor prize.

There's plenty of glibness to be had among other contenders, including Jesse Eisenberg's savagely biting Facebook founder in The Social Network; James Franco as a one-man force of nature, playing a climber trapped alone in a canyon in 127 Hours; and Paul Giamatti in the life story of a crusty producer of schlock TV in Barney's Version.

BEST ACTRESS

Natalie Portman is an unholy terror in Black Swan. A past supporting-actress nominee for Closer, Portman gives herself completely to her role as a goody two-shoes ballerina whose menacing dark side emerges as she prepares for her dream role in Swan Lake.

Annette Bening dominates The Kids Are All Right as the acerbic authoritarian in a family of lesbian parents.

Other possibilities are Anne Hathaway, Love & Other Drugs; Sally Hawkins, Made in Dagenham; Nicole Kidman, Rabbit Hole; Diane Lane, Secretariat; Jennifer Lawrence, Winter's Bone; Helen Mirren, The Tempest; Carey Mulligan, Never Let Me Go; Naomi Watts, Fair Game; Michelle Williams, Blue Valentine.

movies about TV

Morning Glory reveals the further encroachment of entertainment into news. with Harrison Ford playing an old-school anchor who's forced to cohost a network morning program. Merely the notion of fashion and cooking segments causes him to bristle.

But this theme has been explored several times before - and much more proficiently - throughout the years in movies. Television in general has long been a favoured subject for filmmakers; it's the next best thing to skewering their own industry.

Here are five movies about TV that truly are must-see viewing: THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For Richard Crouse's take on movies about TV, go to metronews.ca

Face in the Crowd

Director Elia Kazan and writer Budd Schulberg were eerily prescient more than 50 years ago in depicting the power of television to make or break a personality, to turn an un-known into a magnetic figure or a megalomaniac or both simultaneously. In his film debut, Andy Griffith is hugely charismatic as Larry Lonesome Rhodes, a rambling, country-boy drunk with a gift for song. In no time, a star is born, and that star grows into a monster. TV comes calling, then groupies, then politicians.

Long before Broadcast News lamented the soft-ening of TV news, Sidney Lumet probed the same themes, but with a sharper sense of satire. Like Kazan's film, so much of what happens in Network remains so relevant today. Paddy Chayefsky's Oscar-winning script about a newsman gone mad can be over the top, but it also provides a disturbing look at power and desperation. Faye is fierce (and stylish) as the ratings-hungry TV executive who will do anything to keep the numbers up.

Good Night, and Good Luck

In his second film as a director, George Clooney proves he's an unexpected master of timing and suspense. His recreation of pioneering newsman Edward R. Murrow's on-air battles with Sen. Joseph McCarthy over the senator's 1950s anticommunist crusade is an ambitious marvel of precise vision. Shot in crisp black and white and set in only a few rooms at the CBS News headquarters, it has the spare look and cadence of a play and runs an efficient 90 minutes.

The Truman Show

Twelve years ago, reality television was still relatively in its infancy, but director Peter Weir and writer Andrew Niccol vividly presage the phenomenon of celebrity culture gone wild, and the voyeuristic fascination with learning the most intimate details of a person's private life. Jim Carrey stars as Truman Burbank, a happy-golucky insurance salesman who has no idea his entire idyllic life is a television show, and actors playing his wife, friendly neighbours and co-work-

All the players here are at the top of their game: Dustin Hoffman as notoriously difficult actor Michael Dorsey, who lands a soap opera role by dressing in drag and calling himself Dorothy Michaels; Sydney Pollack, hitting all the right notes as director and providing harsh laughs as Michael's agent; and Teri Garr, Charles Durning and Dabney Coleman, who all stand out in supporting parts. It's slapsticky and absurd, but it also has something to say about aender roles.

From mom to CIA spy

◆ Watts went from motherhood to filming Fair Game ◆ Actress underwent paramilitary training for role

When Naomi Watts was cast as outed CIA agent Valerie Plame in Fair Game, director Doug Liman had just one criticism of her.

"Doug said, 'You're too soft and maternal, and you're going to boot camp,'" she remembers. "I did some paramilitary training for three days. So don't mess with me."

The reason she looked a bit maternal, of course, was because she had just given birth to her second son with husband Liev Schreiber.

"Basically, I had a baby on December 13, I read the script on December 28 and we were filming in February," she says. And while three days may not seem like all that long, the grueling training she went through — alongside actual government trainees — sounds pretty gruesome. At least the details she's allowed to disclose, that is.

"There's one thing I'm not even allowed to talk about," she says. "As Doug walked out, they sort of kicked me in the shins and threw me to the ground and I went, 'Ow!' and he said, 'OK, don't say ow again unless you need to go to the hospital.' So it was intense."

Luckily, she had some support at home, as Schreiber was preparing for another CIA role in Salt while she studied up for Fair Game, which proved convenient.

"It was very funny and very strange to have, first of all, two of us shooting at the same time — that's the first time it ever happened with us — and second of all that we were both playing spies," she says. "There were a lot of moments where we shared our research."

Getting to know your role

For Watts, playing not only a real person but also one still living — and not far removed from the events of the film — proved especially intriguing. But while she got to meet and work with Valerie Plame, she admits the schedule didn't allow for a lot of politeness.

"You don't get her all at once. It takes time. And I'm kind of like that, too," Watts says. "So we just were careful and easy with each other and we slowly went into it, and then finally it was crunch time and I just presented her with a list of very confronting and personal questions."

Harry Potter gets set for final films

Harry Potter's journey is nearly over. Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1 — the next-to-last installment in the film franchise about the teen wizard — premiered Thursday in London ahead of its theatrical release next week.

The adaptation of J.K. Rowling's seventh and final novel comes in two installments, with the second film due out next July.

Fans may leave frustrated that they have to wait eight months for the finale, but Rowling's last book needed to be broken into two parts for the big screen, said Daniel Rad-

"We all realized there was no way you could do justice to the book and really capture the story in one film," he said.

A train ride that goes nowhere

Unstoppable Genre: Action Director: Tony Scott Stars: Denzel Washington, Chris Pine, Rosario Dawson

How do you make a film about a runaway train exciting? It's a vehicle on a set track that's route is known before it ever loses control. The solution director Tony Scott came up with was to fill the train with generic 'hazardous material" and hire a bunch of recognizable actors too look sweaty and stressed in a neverending series of extreme close-ups. Sure, there are a few scenes where the train crashes into something and makes a pretty explosion, but it's still practically impossible to be thrilled by a speeding train.

Part of the problem is that this is a true story that has been dressed up with so much Hollywood gloss that not a thread of reality remains. Denzel Washington and Chris "Captain Kirk" Pine aren't believable as working class train workers for a second and when both actors delve into their troubled personal lives with midchase monologues the movie grinds to a laughable halt (if only they could have stopped the runaway train with melodrama). Now, it's not all bad. Tony Scott knows how to make a movie look good and his use of physical effects is a nice nostalgic change of pace from CGI spectacle. Unfortunately none of that changes the fact that Unstoppable is just one big dumb hollow movie. phil brown

Genre: Documentary Directors: Luc Cote and Patricio Henriquez

A decent doc rendered especially topical by its release in the midst of Omar Khadr's trial, You Don't Like the Truth weaves footage of the accused war criminal's 2003 interrogation at the hands of CSIS into a conventional talking-heads format. Directors Luc Cote and Patricio Henriquez have edited their source material judiciously, and the film is powerful despite their disinterest in supplying much of a counterpoint. O ADAM NAYMAN

Canada, meet your humble host

TV star Cory Monteith gleeful about Gemini gig

Life has changed quite drastically for Glee star Cory Monteith in the last two years. A self-described Canadian "working class actor," Glee's success means Monteith now has to cope with daily paparazzi and ever-present fans. Still, he ain't complaining.

"I went for coffee yester-

"I went for coffee yesterday and a little car pulled up in front of me and start taking pictures of me, which was fine," says Monteith, who plays Finn Hudson on the dramedy.

"And then I went back to my car and started driving away and I saw the guy running to his car to try and follow me. I just roll with it. It's just part and parcel of what this all is. Making sure my zipper is up when I leave the house is really important "

is really important."
Part of that newfound fame means Monteith has been tabbed to host this year's Gemini Awards, honoring the best in Canadian television.

"I can't believe I'm part of the show and especially now I'm hosting. What the heck? Presenting is even cool, but I'm the host. It's a tall order."

Monteith credits his years spent as a busy west coast actor on shows like Stargate, Whistler, and Supernatural with preparing him for his recent success.

"Absolutely. It only helped me. I think having cut my teeth doing a lot of stuff back home and figuring out how to act has proven indispensible," says Monteith, who has a few skeletons in his acting closet that may be revealed at the Geminis.

"That's a good idea. I'm absolutely prepared to make fun of myself. So if anyone would like to talk about the funnier or dumber things that I've done, I'm game. There's a wolfman movie that comes to mind (Hybrid)."

In its second season, Monteith feels Glee is only now hitting its stride.

"I think the tone of the show has got more specified. I think the writing (and) the characters have gotten a lot more specific and the show has kind of developed a feel," says Monteith.

All-star lineup to rock show

The Gemini Awards have pumped up the star wattage, announcing Elvis Costello, Feist and Ron Sexsmith as its musical performers.

Costello, who's nominated for best talk series for his show Spectacle, will perform with Feist, . Sexsmith, fiddler Kendel Carson and bassist Barry Bales at the 25th Gemini Awards gala on Saturday. Big nominees heading into the show include CTV's cop drama Flashpoint, CBC's Republic of Doyle and HBO's Winnipeg-based comedy Less Than Kind.The gala will also pay tribute to Degrassi, promising appearances from alumni including Nina Dobrev, Stefan Brogren and Amanda Stepto.

Presenters include Grace Park of Hawaii Five-O. Enrico Colantoni of Flashpoint and Canadian gold-medal-list ice dancers Tessa Virtue and Scott Moir.

"We are very excited to welcome such an incredible group of legendary musicians to the Gemini Awards stage, as well as pay tribute to one of Canada's bestloved and longest-running TV franchises," Sara Mor-ton, of the Academy of Canadian Cinema & Television, which runs the Geminis, said. Avril ready to rock out

• After what she calls 'bureaucratic BS,' the Canadian pop-punk singer is set to drop her fourth album

Avril Lavigne says her fourth record is set for re-lease after "bureaucratic BS" held it back for a year.

Writing on her MySpace blog, the 26-year-old poppunker betrayed agitation with her record company, which she felt made the process of crafting her album even more difficult.

"I'm done with my 4th record!!! Well, actually I have been done for a year... and now my record company have finally decided to release it," she wrote in a post on Wednesday. "OMG...How nice! Thanks guys. "This has been a really difficult record for me to create. Not only is this the most meaningful and special record I have written, it is sincere, honest and close to my heart.

"But for the first time I experienced a bunch of bureaucratic BS...'

The Ontario native's last record was 2007's The Best Damn Thing. The Junonominated album featured the No. 1 hit Girlfriend and went platinum twice in Canada. It also sold well around the world.

Intervening years were tumultuous for Lavigne.

She announced her divorce from Sum 41 frontman Deryck Whibley last vear and decided to make a management change.

This fourth record has been troublesome, too. It was originally slated for release in fall, 2009. Later, Lavigne told reporters it would see a June release.

"I know you guys have been waiting for a long time...and so have I, but not by choice," she wrote.

She says the first single from the album is called What the Hell.

She's planning on shooting the video in two weeks, aiming at a January release date.

CONAN O'BRIEN

It looks like Conan O'Brien is getting the last laugh after all. The former Tonight Show host's new show was welcomed by more than 4.1 million viewers in the U.S. when it premiered this week; beating The Daily Show with Ion Stewart, The Colbert Report, and — perhaps fittingly — the Tonight Show with Jay Leno.

MTV eyes EMAN Aniston

• Former Friends star said to be considering new reality show

MTV bosses Tony DiSanto and Liz Gateley have reportedly set their sites on Jennifer Aniston as the subject of a new reality series — and the Friends star is said to be considering it, according to Now magazine.

and Liz "Tony are renowned for their skill at making reality shows like the Hills and Jersey Shore. They've been desperate to work with her but weren't too sure what she'd say. Jen is giv-ing it some thought ing it some thought though," a source says. "Jen's a really private person, so everyone will want to know the real her. Viewers would kill to see how she goes about her day-to-day life, what she really eats, and get an insight into her love life."

Demi's reps deny substance claims

With new reports surfacing alleging Demi Lovato was abusing cocaine and other substances before entering a treatment facility, her reps have come out again to set the record straight. "Demi Lovato is not in treatment for drug or alcohol addiction," the Disney star's reps say in a statement. "As we have said since she entered treatment last week, Demi decided to seek help for emotional and physical issues she has battled throughout her life."

Lawyer says there's no excuse for Sheen's behaviour

Charlie Sheen may have tried to shrug off his recent outburst at a New York hotel as "one bad night," but at least one person isn't excusing his behavior so easily.

"As a celebrity you seemed to get away with what the typical person without money and power cannot," high-powered attorney Gloria Allred writes in an open letter to Sheen obtained by Radar Online. "I don't think assaulting and hurting women is funny. I am not one of those standing in line hoping for an interview with you, or an autograph."

Meatless made easy

• Canadian Living vegetarian cookbook shows how diverse meatless meals have become in the kitchen

Vegetarianism is hardly a new culinary concept as more Canadians embrace its diversity and obvious health benefits.

"With the sheer number and variety of vegetables available now and the styles and recipes from around the world, we are seeing more meatless dishes on our tables," says Alison Kent, special publications food editor with Canadian Living mag-

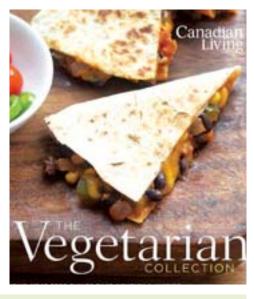

To celebrate the fact that vegetarian meals have become mainstream, the magazine has produced Canadian Living: The Vegetarian Collection: Creative Dishes Meat-Free Nourish Inspire (Transcontinental Books, $22.95, paperback).

Kent, a trained chef, was assisted by the magazine's test kitchen staff to offer a description of each vegetarian type, from vegan and lacto-vegetarian to flexitarian.

Kent says the recipes are seasonless, mainly though there are some wonderful fall and winter soups, risottos and roasted root vegetables as well as squash dishes and curries.

Eating locally in winter is difficult," she says, "but between choosing hot house, frozen and root vegetables, it is possible."

The recipes are organized into eight food categories, including grains, pulses and beans, pasta, soy products, seeds and nuts, eggs and cheese, vegetables as well as a chapter on stocks, sauces, breads and basics. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Playing the waiting game

• Stampeders won't know until Sunday who they'll face in West final

After a successful regular season, the Calgary Stampeders were rewarded with some time off to rest, relax and recuperate.

They returned to practice Thursday but they're still playing a bit of a waiting game.

As they begin preparations to host the West Division final Nov. 21, the Stampeders won't know for a few more days who their opponent will be. That won't be determined until there's a winner in Sunday's semifinal between B.C. and Saskatchewan in Regina.

Stamps coach John Hufnagel liked what he saw from his players after their extended break, saying they were "pretty high-spirited." The Calgary coaching staff will run practices again Friday and Saturday before giving the players a few more days off.

"We have some extra time to work on technique and fundamentals (to) make sure that our skill level stays the same or we increase the skill level," said Hufnagel, who stopped practice and gathered with his players on the field at 11 a.m. for a moment of silence in honour of Remembrance Day.

Thursday's practice was all about getting the team back into "football mode," said running back Joffrey Reynolds.

"We're just trying to sharpen up our skills so it's not a shock to you to get bumped around," he said. "Right now, everybody's mind frame is that we're

Babe happy birthday! The life I have with you in is much better than what I had before. Thank you for joining my life. I LOVE you so much. xoxo your LITTLE DEVIL. JX

Jay-Bee, my best friend whom i love<3! we've been friends for the longest time and our dads even new each other before we were even born! amazing! im glad your in my life and im always there for you no matter what! be ready because we have more missions and memories hehe!!

Peter, I just want to tell everyone that I am soooo in love with you make so happy in so many ways. You are so sweet to me I love you so much happy 1st anniverasary sweety pie LOVE ALWAYS PATRICIA

Today's horoscope

T Aries March 21-April 20 You will meet some interesting people on your travels today and at least one of them is destined to play a major role in your life over the next six months, and maybe longer.

¥ Taurus April 21-May 21 lt may seem as if others are conspiring to stop you moving in the direction you want to go but are they really or is your own mind sabotaging your ef-

II Gemini May 22-June 21 If you are as smart as you think you are you will see the futility of trying too hard.

Gancer June 22-July 22 The softer side of your nature will shine through today. You may look tough to the world at large but that's merely your hard outer shell - underneath you are more vulnerable than most people realize

Ω Leo July 23-Aug.23 Sit back, close your eyes and imagine where you would most like to be and what you would most like to be doing by this time next year.

MP Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 Life does not have to be a battle. You don't have to fight for success. The Sun in the communications area of your chart makes it easy for you to charm your way to the top. Get busy making new friends today.

← Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Don't waste too much time trying to figure out why something went wrong. Just pick yourself up and try something else.

M Scorpio oct. 24-Nov. 22 So many of the things you are worrying about bear little or no relation to reality, so stop thinking about them because that gives them power.

→ Sagittarius

Nov. 23-Dec. 21 If you need to kiss and make up, if you need to make amends, now is the time. Also, if you are having second thoughts about travel plans there is still time to put them on hold.

り Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 As usual you are working too hard and as usual you think the way to get ahead is to work even harder. Big mistake!

Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Forget about the little things that have gone wrong in your life and focus on the big things that have gone right. So you're not as rich and successful as you would like to be? So what!

H Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

Make the most of the favorable cosmic climate to push ahead with a creative or artistic project you hope will impress enough important people to get you recognized. Everyone has a special talent. Yours can make you extra money.
